

Christmas Gift Ideas (part 1)

I think I am going to do a series of Christmas Gift ideas for the next couple of weeks. Here is the first one:

For someone with a young boy Chasing Fireflies's shirt:

 $34

J.Crew offers monogramming on most of their wool sweaters for $10. I think it is nice to give something personalized. I like this one with a pink monogram (just one letter, like Laverne). Cambridge Cable Cardigan, in snow. Asked for it for myself. $86

Anthropologie has some really nice jewelry online. I got Emily this Sugar Plum Fairy Necklace last year. It is beautiful. I wear it sometimes, doubled around my neck. So cute.

World Vision Catalog gives you the opportunity to give a meaningful gift that can change a person's life in a impoverished country. In amounts ranging from $25 to $3595, you can buy a goat for a child for $75, share in the cost of a well for $75 or malaria protection for a whole family for $20.

Hostess Aprons by Jessie Steele are a great gift for any gal with a kitchen.

We all need to buy a lot of smallish gifts to give out to teachers, friends and neighbors. Three Potato Four has this adorable cup with stackable mini plate that fits on top. Designed by Shinzi Katoh, these cups are $18 each.

(Cup says, "What kind of birds are those")

There, that should get us started; 41 days until Christmas!
