

Clever picture of Laura Ingalls holding an iPhone

I've had no internet, no home phone, no camera (in the shop for cleaning) and no cable for the last week—it's been brutal, rustic and charmless. I've been like the Laura Ingalls of Irvine, but with an iPhone.

My daughter loves the "Little House on the Prairie" books and when I read them I always think the same thing, "Stay in your cozy cabin in Wisconsin! Are you crazy? You know you have to BUILD the house when you finally get there, right?"

I'm happy to be back and to get working on some new ideas that sprang to me while wrapping, packing, unpacking and unwrapping.

I had planned on Photoshop-ing a picture of "Half-Pint" holding an iPhone, but I am just too exhausted.

Please just use your imagination and picture one here as a personal favor to me...
