

Confession No. 5 : Afraid of Skateboarders

Last night while I was putting my son to bed I heard kids skateboarding out in the street. I heard the grinding of the boards on the curbs and the enthusiastic “Whoaaa” of the boys. I quickly ran downstairs to make sure my car doors were locked.

(When did I become THIS person? Skateboarders!)