

Happy President's Day!

I read Stanley Bing's Blog on Fortune.com. Today he posted this hilarious list—this is exactly why I read him. Please make SURE to read the comments after his post. The first two are just as funny as the post.

10 Things George Washington Never Did On His Birthday

Regarding the comments, I received several of these sorts of comments after I posted "The OC" the new "Frisco." The comments, which I deleted because they came from anonymous (which I refuse to publish anything from anonymous), were along the lines of, "San Francisco is way cooler than Orange County" and "Orange County will never be like San Francisco" ... ah...kinda missing the point. Also, with my "OC Post Marries in Private Ceremony," I received comments like "Why do you waste your time writing this?" and "What dribble," all again, from that perceptive soul at the keyboard—anonymous. Anonymity really makes some people brave.

Anyway, I love Bing.

