

Happy Thanksgiving!

I once heard someone say, "If you have money to buy a book and the capability to read it, you are one of the most blessed people on Earth." Or something like that. We have so much to be thankful for.

I wanted to provide you with some holiday conversation-starters from my blog as my gift to you:

"55 of the Worst Songs Ever" even though you should probably stay away from the topics of religion, politics or Lionel Richie, talking about the worst songs ever could eat up a fair amount of time.

You have my permission to say "That's Interesting" to your brother-in-law when he starts to discuss his kitchen remodel (in excruciating detail.)

Add to the list "Ten Ways I Wish Some 70's TV Shows Were Different."

When you pull out your new Isabella Fiore clutch you got for Thanksgiving, review with your husband "Handbags, Totes and Clutches 101."

If you are coming to my house, this is a little reminder for when you are talking to Larry, "Five Ways to Anger, Annoy or Prompt Eye-Rolling from a Green Beret."

You have my permission to tell my "Five Snail Jokes."

Have a Happy Thanksgiving! I am thankful for my family and friends and for those of you who lurk around my blog, Thank You.

If you know Diane K., call her and wish her a Happy Birthday!