

I Like Blogging Because...

I like blogging because a.) I can give up on it any time I want with really no consequence whatsoever, which is my favorite kind of endeavor, b.) I can incorporate all of my senseless interests (see Interests below) into one place for all to see that I really am a very petty and immature person, c.) I can do it when my kids are in the tub, d.) my friends have heard all of my stories and theories and frankly are sick to death of me e.) I can't afford to buy a Juicy Purse to make my personal statement about myself, and f.) I can further explore my love of making long lists.