

April in Paris... in a Cup

Jana, Jill and I invited our friend Eve to Paris in a Cup for a belated birthday brunch. The tea house is tucked away in a little store front in the Orange Circle. It's newly opened and its freshly designed french decor added to the feeling of "let's have some serious girl talk."

There's Eve, she is French Canadian so this was like a taste of home for her. She is also pregnant with number six, which made the idea of finger foods a little frightening, but she loved it.

Chocolate was involved.

Jill, Jana, Eve and I...Isn't the dinning room beautiful? I like this picture, its moody and stylish, just like us!

We love you Eve!
