

The “phone booth”

On our recent trip out to the desert we came along this new contraption that I think is ingenious. It's called a "phone booth" and they made it so you can talk on your cell phone in privacy. You go inside and it's quiet as a library in there.

They even give you a place to rest your arm if it gets tired from holding your iPhone.

Today I am listening to El0's Telephone Line in honor of the industrious men and women who came up with the "phone booth."
