

Patchwork: Indie Arts & Crafts Festival

My family and I have taken the Handmade Pledge this Christmas, and since I don't personally make anything by hand, the pledge means I will be shopping Etsy and craft fairs for the next month.

Lucky me! Patchwork is this weekend in Santa Ana. So, if you have taken the plunge (or pledge), maybe I'll see you there.

(I'm the spool of thread in the middle and Blythe is the one on the right. It's so obvious that Meg is the one on left—the resemblance is uncanny. Chris is the sewing machine with the mustache because it's a boy and he's a boy.)