

The iron

I plugged in the iron last night and all the lights in the house started to flicker. There was some sort of power surge...or maybe it was the house rejecting a foreign appliance. I don't think I have ever used it in this house before. I truly am a disgrace to the housewife.

Picture lifted from the Etsy shop of michelemaule