

There's a new boss in Wonderland

Nothing frightens a young writer more than a change of editors. Except maybe the comma shudder at the thought of misplacement

I have survived my first change in editors at the Register.

Here is the latest "Alive in Wonderland. "

My editor of Alive in Wonderland at ocregister.com is ~~deserting me~~ has moved over to the SPORTS PAGE! THE SPORTS PAGE, of all things. Keith Sharon was the one who gave me the spot on the Morning Read and has been my biggest supporter. So, from the bottom of my insecure writer's heart—good luck and thank you, Keith.

I've decided to be positive about this since Keith has been so great to me (and because when the Ducks' season is back in full swing I might want to write a story for him).

(Keith and me at Mustard's, picture by the wickedly talented Lisa Mertins.)

The new boss in Wonderland is a tyrant named Andre Mouchard. He's widely feared at the OC Register for his searing anger... "Click Here To Read The Rest of the Story..." Don't forget to select "recommend" at the top of the column.