

These are the days I'll remember

This is hands-down my favorite thing to do at the moment—walk behind my kids as they head to the park.

The weather has been beautiful, and early evening is when all the wild parrots come out and quarrel with each other in the tall trees. They really get worked up.

Ben has just mastered his killer Schwinn.

Getting there is half the fun.

