

The blogging result of being a geek

I wrote a “Friday Five” that consisted of five snail jokes. I have a private collection of snail jokes that I tell when I’m asked (which honestly NEVER happens) or I feel the party is in need of a little light snail humor.

If you must, you can see the original post: Here.

Now, I get THE most hits to my site from people “Googling” snail jokes. Who knew there was such an ardent need for snail jokes?

Just to show you how silly it has become, I Googled “snail jokes” and this is what comes up. Yep, my blog comes even before snailjokes.com!

You have to be three kinds of geeky to get that kind of traffic.
