

Wendy is still a total babe and she's on Facebook

You might remember this I posted from my seventh-grade yearbook. It's an inscription from James Cox, but with all the passing along of books from person to person he lost track of whose book he was writing in and wrote a note to Wendy in mine.

He then realized his mistake and did what any seventh grade boy would do, crossed out her name and write mine...and then take out that whole "I think you're a total babe" part, too.

Just to keep it honest.

Well, I found Wendy on FaceBook and she is still a total babe.

It's okay, I wasn't a total babe until eighth grade...

More nonsense from Jr. High:

"Stay Sweet and other well wishes from Jr. High"

"These were the best of times"