

What you should be watching, reading and eating in Orange County

The Morning Read: Keith Sharon at OC Register.com has created a page that you should be checking in on every morning and I am not just saying that because he wrote I was a “funny lady.”

DayBreak OC on KDOC: It is much better since its rough start (see what I wrote here)...I try to watch everyday. I think Ben Aaron’s segments are spot on– exactly what they should be.

PCH Dog: In Orange and Huntington Beach, not the most feminine place to eat, but yum. Went there today and was the only girl in line with 15 (literally 15) guys. learned I apparently should be watching “Family Guy.”

Trendzilla at OC Weekly: I love Vickie Chang’s column. She addresses the most pressing fashion questions, like: Do we have to LOVE Juicy if we live in OC?(no); Is a handbag really an investment? (no); Is Carrie Bradshaw truly the cultural/fashion voice of our generation? (noooooooooo)

Taco Rosa: Just eat there okay?

The OC Art Blog: YES, OC, as in Orange County A-R-T Blog. Chris Hoff keeps us up on Art in Orange County.

OC Then: Reminisce about orange groves, Farrell’s Ice Cream Parlor and other things from Orange County’s brief history.
