

Out of Africa—Finally!

My husband just got back from his annual trip to Africa. He was visiting Zimbabwe to identify potential charities. He visited orphanages, old aged homes and the random internet cafe. Inflation is so bad there that it cost something like 13 BILLION dollars for 15 minutes of internet time.

As an internet writer this would give me pause. As an internet addict, it would only be for a moment.

George, Larry and Steve. Welcome home guys.
