

“Honey, I am going to have to write you up for tonight’s dinner”

☒ Sometimes I think if being a housewife were an actual “Job” I would get fired, or at least I would be on probation. I enjoy being a mom and a wife, more than enjoy it, I love it. But the actual talent needed to be a good housewife—cooking, cleaning, shopping for bargains—I simply lack.

I have hope the overwhelming love I have for my family will, in the end, outshine my inability to poach an egg or keep up with the laundry. I’m pretty sure it will...
