

“Everything’s drawn and super '80s”

If you have been reading this blog for a while, you have probably caught-on that I am a child of the '70s and a teenager of the '80s and a wandering, waitress soul of the '90s...and I mercilessly drag you through every Love's-Baby-Soft, day-glo, did-you-see-Friends-last-night minute of it...see here...and here...rats! and here for clarification.

My friend Pete, who HAS been reading me since the began (thanks Pete), sent me this from Wil Wheaton's Blog. Wil is equally and appropriately distracted by his childhood/teenage/wandering days.

Here is the literal version of the song, “Take me on,” by A-Ha.

Look at that, I wrote about the “Take Me On” couple briefly here. Okay, that was the last time I am going to link to myself.

...here.