

Do me a favor, open the door, let 'em in...

Guess who came knockin' at my door today? Marcy and Vicki surprised me with a visit.

(Such a lovely sight to see)

They came with gifts and words of encouragement for the new house. This is the kind of things you get from two artists/bloggers...lucky me.

(Take a look at the cards on the flowers and champaign. Well done gals! Thank you.)

Larry said he could hear us giggling upstairs as he cleaned out the garage. (Both parts of this sentence I like—the giggling and the garage cleaning—it was a good day.)

Here are some pictures of the new abode. I am feeling right at home here. So much more than our old house. This house just “fits” us.

My new office.

(See my muse on the wall? Thanks Inside a Black Apple. Also appearing, Fifi Lapin's Rabbits, one of Annie's Bears, and Birdo by Matteart.)

The dinning room all lit up for our party.
