

Staying up late with iMovie

Well, that's it. I did it. My first appearance on TV is now history. I think it went pretty well. As soon as I got there and set up my goodies I wasn't nervous at all (okay—little bit). I didn't do any of the list of things feared, which was my ultimate goal.

I took a load of video and I'm working on a new video which will include the segment for "Alive in Wonderland." I won't get the copy until Tuesday, so you'll have to wait if you didn't see it live this morning. Sorry.

Busy working on videos tonight—more videos than writing lately. I will get back to it though. It has been a nice break, but I have a couple stories stirring. It will come back right? The writing?

Geesh! Look at the time again.